

JAPAN PROPOSES NEW LAND TREATY

Suggests That United States
Give Her Subjects
Specific Rights.

WILSON TO DISCUSS IT WITH SENATORS

Mexico and Other Important
Questions Also To Be Considered at Conference.

(From The Tribune Bureau.)

Washington, Jan. 24.—When the President takes up the Japanese situation with the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, which he will do at the White House conference on Monday night, he will lay before his visitors a proposal from Japan for a new agreement between the two countries, in which the specific right of Japanese subjects to own property, including land, in the United States, will be granted. Precisely what the administration's attitude will be is not known, but it is certain that the Japanese government has made a tentative proposal of this character, going so far as to submit a draft of a proposed agreement.

There is grave doubt in the minds of many officials of the administration that any such agreement, even if the administration thought it wise to concede it, could be ratified by the Senate. This led to a discussion of the possibility of an exchange of notes between the two governments which would place on the existing treaty the interpretation that it granted the most favored nation treatment in the matter of land ownership to the nationals of the signatories.

It would not be necessary for the Senate to pass on such an exchange of notes, although it is admitted that it will take a good deal of courage for the administration to take this step, which would constitute a withdrawal by the State Department from the position it has taken that the California legislation is not a violation of any Japanese rights. The State Department, in combating Japanese contentions, has recommended that the Japanese government appeal to the courts of the United States.

It is hoped that Senator Root will be present at the conference on Monday night. He is regarded as probably better fitted to discuss the Japanese problem than any other statesman in the country. He was Secretary of State during the period when there was much trouble with Japan, including the noted school children dispute in San Francisco, and it was he who framed the "gentlemen's agreement" whereby Japan promised to stop emigration to the United States.

It has been virtually decided that none of the pending immigration legislation in Congress shall be permitted to interfere with the Root-Takahira "gentlemen's agreement." Representations on this point have been made by the State Department to the Japanese government, and an understanding has been reached that the agreement shall remain intact.

Other important questions will come up at the White House conference. The Mexican situation will be certain to receive consideration. It is also possible that the President will ask the committee about certain diplomatic nominations which have been held up since November, including the nominations of sixteen secretaries.

The President has also let it be known that he is anxious for the renewal of the arbitration treaties pending before the Senate. These he will probably discuss with the committee. Another matter which may come up is the dispute with Colombia.

Claims Harmony of Purpose.

Baron Makino, the Japanese Foreign Minister, has made a supplementary statement to the Japanese Parliament regarding California land legislation intended to show that, according to the Japanese understanding, there is perfect harmony of purpose between the United States and Japan in the negotiations to settle the question, and that the Japanese government is relying on assurances to that end from Washington.

According to a transcript of his remarks made public by the Japanese Embassy here to-day, the minister said:

"While it is a fact that the American government has not replied to the third protest of the Imperial government, it is the purpose of the Imperial government to settle the question in an advantageous manner as possible, and I believe that the American government is aware of the wishes which form the demand of the Japanese government, and that toward the accomplishment of the object the American government is constantly taking measures of investigation by the most just methods."

The statement was made by Baron Makino in answer to a formal interpellation moved by a member of the government party.

FAMILY REUNION AT WHITE HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Sayre
Return to Washington
After Honeymoon.

ARRIVE ON MAJESTIC AFTER STORMY TRIP

Miss Margaret Wilson Daringly
Climbs Cutter's Ladder to Greet Sister.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The family circle at the White House was complete to-night for the first time in two months. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre, the latter formerly Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, reached Washington late to-day after a two months' honeymoon trip in Europe. They came back to the Executive Mansion as inconspicuously as they left it on the night of the wedding.

The young couple accompanied the President and Mrs. Wilson to the theatre to-night. They expect to spend a few days here before going to their future home in Williamstown, Mass.

Wind and storm made life miserable for those on board the White Star liner Majestic, which came in yesterday three days late from Southampton. Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, President Wilson's daughter, was a passenger. Terrible gales blew incessantly for ten days, kicking up seas the like of which the Majestic's master, Captain Beunder, declared he had never before encountered. It was a hard luck journey from the time the liner left Cherbourg, and every passenger on board was thankful when she steamed into the comparatively quiet waters of this port.

Mrs. Sayre and her husband were in excellent spirits when they returned after a honeymoon of two months abroad. The White House bride suffered from a sprained wrist, a result of the storm, but she is getting better. She told the friends who met her she had had a delightful time. Her joy knew no bounds when she looked over the Majestic's rail and saw her sister, Miss Margaret Wilson, standing on the deck of the revenue cutter Manhattan, which Collector Dudley Field Malone and Miss Wilson on board, had come down the bay before the liner had left Quarantine.

The two young women were anxious to greet each other, but for a time it seemed that the meeting would have to be deferred until the Majestic docked. The vessel's accommodation ladder, the only safe means of boarding, was not working. Miss Margaret, however, overcame the difficulty by climbing the cutter's twenty-foot boarding ladder if permission could be had. The harbor was still choppy, and the cutter pounded heavily along the ship's side.

Fearful lest some accident should befall his charge, Mr. Malone advised Miss Wilson not to climb, but she was not to be thwarted. She had gone down the bay to meet her sister. She had seen fat inspectors and lean reporters go pimpling up the side and what man dared to that she dared she, so Mr. Malone's advice went for naught. Finding himself confronted by a determined and courageous young woman, he did some quick thinking to insure safety for the ascent. Mr. Simmons, the second officer, came to his assistance. Like a monkey on a stick Mr. Simmons went down the ladder with a line from the dack and making it fast around Miss Wilson, led the way up.

The line, however, might as well have remained coiled on deck for Miss Wilson made the climb as steadily and quickly as did the men who had preceded her and Mr. Malone gave a sigh of relief.

Mrs. Sayre said she and her husband had had a delightful journey spending all except a week of their time in London. The couple expressed appreciation of the entertainment afforded them by their chief host, Ambassador Page.

"We met most charming and interesting people," said Mrs. Sayre, "and visited many sociological institutions."

Soon after the Majestic docked the Sayres and Miss Margaret Wilson boarded a train for Washington.

DEADLOCK IN RULES COMMITTEE OVER CAUSE

Vote Stands 4 to 4, with Three Representatives Absent—
Lenroot's Plan Fails.

(From The Tribune Bureau.)
Washington, Jan. 24.—The demand of the woman suffragists for a separate House committee on woman suffrage was met with a tie vote in the Committee on Rules to-day. With but eight members of the committee present a deadlock resulted, and the attempt of Mr. Lenroot to force the report of a resolution for the creation of a new committee was ineffective.

A week ago the Democrats of the committee met in conference and rejected the plea for the suffragists. Mr. Lenroot, a Republican, endeavored to overthrow this action to-day when the Rules Committee assembled to take up several pending matters. Representatives Lenroot and Campbell, Republicans; Foster, Demorest, and Kelly, Progressives, voted in favor of the creation of a suffrage committee. Representatives Hardwick, Pou, Cantrell and Garrett, Democrats, were opposed. Chairman Henry and Representatives Goldfolgie and Merrill were the absentees.

At the recent Democratic conference Mr. Pou voted in favor of the woman suffragists, but he declined to-day to go behind the Democratic conference decree to vote with Mr. Lenroot and others.

Unless a way is found to force the issue again when the full membership of the Rules Committee is present the prospects are slender that the suffragists will get a House committee, which shall devote itself exclusively to bills and resolutions affecting the vote for women.

ACTOR'S SON NOT RUNAWAY

Mrs. Mansfield Denies Story
He Had Fled School.

Mrs. Beatrice Mansfield, widow of Richard Mansfield, the actor, yesterday, through her lawyer, wrote from New London, Conn., that she had brought her son, Gibbs, to New York that he might visit an oculist. Morning newspapers had printed a story that the boy had, being discontented, run away from the Choate School, in Wallingford, Conn. She also stated that Mrs. Mansfield was in Paris.

"My son is now in the Choate School and I hope he will remain there until he enters college," wrote Mrs. Mansfield. "He is happy in his school and I am happy in the thought of the good influences which surround him."

JUDGE SPEER INTERRUPTS

Excited by References to Favoritism to Son-in-Law.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 24.—Charges that he had shown favoritism to A. H. Heyward, his son-in-law, moved Judge Emory Speer, of the United States District Court, under an investigation here by a Congressional committee, to again interrupt the proceedings to-day. Jumping to his feet, Judge Speer exclaimed:

"I have been defamed as no other judge was ever defamed. I ask this committee to see to it that all the true facts are brought out so that the public may understand them."

R. Colton Lewis, special examiner for the Department of Justice, a witness, read a list of forty bankruptcy cases in which fees had been paid to Heyward, or to the firm of Talley & Heyward. The hearing will be resumed in Savannah.

DEAD DOG COMES BACK

Rises from "Record" to Haunt
Member of Congress.

Washington, Jan. 24.—When Representative Barnhart, of Indiana, demanded to-day that "The Congressional Record" be purged of random articles on subjects outside proceedings, Representative Langley said that in the last Congress he obtained unanimous consent that Mr. Barnhart's eulogy on a dog be inserted in "The Congressional Record." Langley wanted to know if the Indiana member regarded that as an extraneous matter.

"I do," retorted Mr. Barnhart, "but inasmuch as I was new on my job then, and it was my dog, and he was dead, I didn't have the heart to object."

"I have forgotten whether it was your dog," replied Mr. Langley, "or whether the dog was dead, but I regarded it as a splendid piece of English and thought it would improve 'The Record.'"

JAMES SHEVLIN KNIGHTED

Pope Recognizes His Generosity with St. Gregory Order.

James Shevlin, who succeeded Hugh McLaughlin as the leader of the Willoughby street coterie of Brooklyn Democrats, was made a Knight of St. Gregory by Pope Pius X yesterday. The announcement was made by Bishop McDonnell at St. Mary's Hospital.

The honor came to him after he gave a $5,000 nurse's home to the hospital and $15,000 to the French Nursing Sisters. Mr. Shevlin was persuaded to go to the hospital in the belief that he was going to attend a meeting of the trustees to discuss the institution's finances.

Other Knights of St. Gregory in Brooklyn are Edward Feeney, former national president of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, and Thomas W. Hines, president of the Particular Council of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

SEES GREAT GOOD IN STOCK EXCHANGE

W. C. Van Antwerp Insists
It Will Win Admiration and Respect.

ITS STANDARDS ON THE HIGHEST PLANE

Exchange Governor Finds in Wilson's Message Words
"Burning with Vitality."

Washington, Jan. 24.—Praise of President Wilson's trust message, condemnation of popular attacks on the New York Stock Exchange and an attack on some of the findings of the House committee of the last Congress which investigated the "money trust" were coupled in an address here to-night before an assembly of Capital bankers by William C. Van Antwerp, one of the governors of the exchange and a student of economics. He spoke in an era of co-operation between the financial powers of Wall Street and the nation.

"When the President of this country," said Mr. Van Antwerp, "speaks of the atmosphere of accommodation and mutual understanding, when he dwells in loving kindness upon terms of honorable surrender, when he tells us the 'antagonism between business and government is over,' when he speaks of heartening the young man coming on, when he tells us the 'constitution of peace is honor and freedom and prosperity,' when, I say, the head of this government, whom we once thought to be speaking in words burning with vitality—when he says these things, is he not voicing a mandate for fair play, for altruism and for righteousness?"

"Heresies and schisms come and go; man-made laws appear and disappear, but the human heart does not change, and in the last analysis we come to know that only righteousness exalteth a nation."

Will Earn Admiration.

"We of the Stock Exchange know this to-day better than we ever knew it before, and we intend to live by it through the years. We shall make many mistakes, no doubt, but we shall stick to our standards and rejoice in them, and some day—mark my words—this great market place will earn the admiration and respect of the whole people."

"We are determined to show our critics by our deeds that the Stock Exchange means something vital and vitalizing in America, that it is an important adjunct of the new Wall Street—a broad highway from ocean to ocean, doing its utmost to meet the needs of a happy and prosperous land."

Mr. Van Antwerp contrasted what he called "the Wall Street of Mother Goose and Baron Munchausen" with "the real Wall Street." He said the legitimate business of the Stock Exchange was often popularly condemned for the sins of promoters, racketeers and ill-fated ventures. He attacked the "money trust" committee's interpretation of figures showing loans of New York banks on Stock Exchange collateral, and declared that actually the amounts of New York money loaned to the country at large far exceeded loans on stock.

On a High Plane.

"The harm done by these random and misleading implications is incalculable, and good, but imaginative, business men who accept such statements as authoritative should be told plainly the facts," Mr. Van Antwerp said. "The New York Stock Exchange to-day is conducted on a higher plane of ethical business standards than any business in America or any profession in America, bar none. There are men in New York, and I have no doubt in Washington also, who when ever a new proposition comes out of the South or West condemn it as irrational and visionary without giving thought to the emergency which gave it birth. We are provincial and narrow, and in hugging our chains with smug, Pharisaic indifference to the problems of the country at large we fall utterly in the fundamental of good conduct."

"Can we of New York and the East obstinately refuse to adapt our course to new and ever changing country-wide conditions? Before we appeal to our critics in the West and South for sanity and clear thinking in our own affairs we must emancipate ourselves from whatever is local, provincial and selfish. We must put away the isolated, detached and narrow view when occasion demands and steer our ship toward the broad horizon of America."

WRITES TO MAYOR IN 1914

Akron Executive Makes Salutation Fit Man or Woman.

Akron, Ohio, Jan. 24.—Mayor Rockwell wrote a letter yesterday to the person who will be Mayor of Akron a hundred years hence. The epistle tells of the present debt, the names of all city officials, the problems confronting the municipality and the political situation in Akron in 1914.

The letter will be sealed, addressed to "His Honor, Mayor of Akron, 2014," marked with instructions not to be opened or opened until that year and placed in a bank deposit vault to lie for a century.

The salutation in the letter will fit either a man or a woman Mayor.

NO TRUE BILL FOR MOYER KIDNAPPING

Special Prosecutor Did Not See Indictment for Actual Deportation.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 24.—A "no true bill" was reported to-day by the grand jury which has been investigating the alleged kidnapping and forcible deportation of Charles H. Moyer and John Tanner, officials of the Western Federation of Miners, on the night of December 15. Seventeen citizens were named in the indictment, which covered only the alleged assault on Moyer in Hancock.

Four other "no true bills" in cases growing out of strike disorders were presented. One true bill was returned, in as the charge is a felony it was not made public.

Mr. Nichols, the special prosecutor, afterward he had explained to the grand jury that, in his opinion, the statute on kidnapping did not apply to the deportation of Moyer and Tanner, because the men were not forcibly sent out of the state, but were left to take their own course this side of the state line, and because there could be no possible claim that there was any intent to confine them against their will within the state.

Twenty-seven witnesses were examined in the Moyer case, and the jury deliberated over it for two days. The improbability of getting witnesses who could positively identify the men in the crowd that assaulted Moyer is said to have been the main reason a "no true bill" was returned.

GIBBONS TO QUIT ANNAPOLIS
